PROFILE

I'm Dan Luis, a computer technologist with a strong academic background and experience in web development.

Throughout my career, I've had the opportunity to work on various projects and challenges that have strengthened my skills in web development, teamwork, and my ability to adapt to dynamic environments and collaborate effectively in multidisciplinary teams.

My passion for computer science drives me to continually seek learning and growth opportunities.

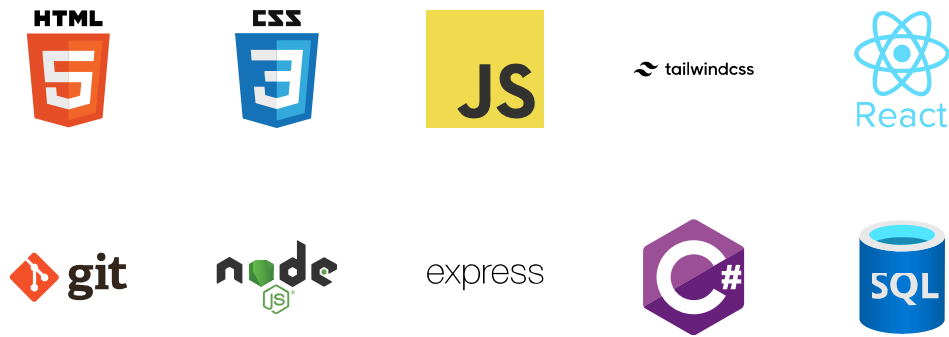

EXPERIENCE

Sodaie - FullStack Developer
Designed and developed a web application using React, Node.js, and MySQL. Led and mentored new team members, ensuring project success and continuity.

CleanNow - Final Thesis Project
Developed an innovative solution with my team to address a growing problem, applying our software development skills to create CleanNow.

Personal Projects
Passionate about continuous learning, I spend my free time exploring new technologies and developing personal projects to expand my skills and knowledge in software development.
